

RPL Policy

Martyr Training Services recognition of prior learning to individual learners

Martyr Training Services acknowledges the prior experience and qualifications of students in accordance with its obligations under the RTO Standards 2015.

Students who have prior qualifications and/or experience in the area of learning for which they are applying, may be eligible for RPL.

If you have experience in the short course you are enrolling in, you may be eligible for recognition of prior learning for some or all of the course topics. You should download the relevant unit of competency for the short course from the TGA website to determine if you will meet the evidence requirements.

Partial evidence of a single unit would not deem you eligible, although you may choose to provide this evidence during the full program as a means of reducing your overall workload.

To determine if your evidence is sufficient, review each unit by going to www.training.gov.au and comparing your evidence to the 'Skills and Knowledge Evidence' requirements listed at the end of each unit.